Suffolk County was created by the Massachusetts General Court on May 10, 1643, when it was ordered "that the whole plantation within this jurisdiction be divided into four shires. Suffolk initially contained Boston, Roxbury, Dorchester, Dedham, Braintree, Weymouth and Hingham. The county was named after Suffolk England and means "southern folk."

In 1731, the extreme western portions of Suffolk County, (which included Uxbridge), were split off to become part of Worcester. In 1793, most of the original Suffolk County except for Boston and Chelsea (which remained in Suffolk) split off and became Norfolk. Suffolk County claimed Hingham from its founding in 1635 until 1793; Norfolk County from 1793 to 1803; and finally, Plymouth County from 1803. Revere was set off from Chelsea and incorporated in 1846 and Winthrop was set off from Revere and incorporated in 1852.

In the late 19th century and early 20th century, Boston annexed several adjacent towns including Hyde Park, Roxbury, West Roxbury, and Dorchester from Norfolk County and Charlestown and Brighton from Middlesex County, resulting in an enlargement of Suffolk County.

Since this is early Suffolk County (home of Henry Chamberlin and his children and some of his children's children), and since David Conrad Chamberlin applied the "lin" ending to the surname for the Henry Line, the surname "Chamberlin" has been added to the listed first names in this transcription in a generic sense, representing the many various spellings of this surname that may appear in the original courthouse records, such as: Chamberlin, Chamberlin, Chamberline, Chamberlayne, Chamberline, Chambling, etc.
